Humber Bridge

Don't miss taking an exhilarating walk or cycle ride across the bridge (from Far Ings Road) with panoramic views of North Lincolnshire and East Yorkshire across the River.

THE SOUTH HUMBER COLLECTION

North Lincolnshire is an area of rural tranquillity and remarkable natural beauty where the rolling chalk of the Lincolnshire Wolds meets the fertile lands of the Ancholme Valley. This is the perfect place to unwind and discover hidden gems and the great outdoors.

On the edge of the Lincolnshire Wolds, the charming town of Barton upon Humber nestles in the shadow of the magnificent Humber Bridge. In late medieval times Barton was the most important port on the Humber and has many fine merchants' houses. Today the town centre is home to a wide range of friendly independent shops, welcoming inns and cafés, perfect for a memorable short break or family day out. Regular events, outdoor music and theatre performances are held throughout the year.

The South Humber Collection, North Lincolnshire, showcases the area's leading wildlife and heritage attractions. From Thornton Abbey and Gatehouse in the east to Alkborough in the west, the South Humber Collection is centred on historic Barton upon Humber.

Developed out of a partnership between North Lincolnshire Council, English Heritage, Environment Agency, Natural England, Lincolnshire Wildlife Trust and Queen Street School Preservation Trust, with additional funding from Yorkshire Forward and the Heritage Lottery Fund, the Collection showcases some of the area's finest attractions.

Explore one of England's finest medieval gatehouses; discover rare birds on one of Europe's finest migratory routes or buy quality art. The South Humber Collection is first choice for history, art and wildlife enthusiasts, or families looking for a day out with a difference.

Thornton Abbey & Gatehouse

Set amid the tranquil North Lincolnshire countryside the ornate fortified gatehouse of Thornton Abbey is among the finest surviving in Britain. Built following the Peasants' Revolt of 1381, Thornton Abbey was proclaimed as one of the wealthiest English Augustinian monasteries of its day. Within the main grounds are the remains of the monastic buildings, featuring the elegantly decorated chapter house.

There is an exciting exhibition giving an insight into the Abbey's history from its foundation to the present day. Extensive restoration work to the crumbling monastery and the introduction of an exterior oak staircase gives visitors to the Abbey easier access to the gatehouse and its haunting passageways and hidden alleys. The Abbey not only offers a fantastic opportunity to examine the tides of history but the grounds are also a haven for wildlife and the ideal place to get away from it all.

Normanby Hall Country Park

Managed by North Lincolnshire Council, Normanby Hall Country Park is a beautiful 300 acre estate set in the heart of North Lincolnshire. Open to the public every day of the year, the park offers the perfect backdrop to your day out. The Hall and the Farming Museum are open throughout the summer season (March to September) and with award winning gardens, exciting events, or just a relaxing environment to enjoy a day out, there is plenty to keep you entertained all year round. The new woodland paths and changing places facility make the area more accessible to all.

New for summer is a splashpad water play feature to keep children entertained during the warmer months.

Far Ings National Nature Reserve

Far Ings National Nature Reserve is one of the foremost areas in the country for the conservation of reedbeds and a stronghold for one of Britain's rarest birds, the bittern. The visitor centre has interpretative displays, binoculars and a gift shop. Take time to relax with a coffee in the spectacular viewing gallery and enjoy the striking panoramic views across the reserve and out to the estuary and Humber Bridge beyond.

The reserve is an ideal destination for watching wildlife. The open water, reedbeds and meadows of the reserve are a legacy of the tile and cement industry which once flourished on the south Humber bank. Thanks to pioneering management by the Lincolnshire Wildlife Trust, Far Ings is now rich in wildlife including many aquatic plants, insects such as dragonflies, and birds including the marsh harrier, shoveler and pochard.

Wilderspin National School

Museum and Visitor Centre

Come and visit the historic Victorian schoolrooms in the heart of Barton's conservation area where educational pioneer Samuel Wilderspin changed the face of primary school education. Visit the UK's only fully restored Wilderspin playground as you go back to school and relive the "best days of your life". Relax and reminisce over refreshments in Scholars Coffee Shop and take home a souvenir from our shop of nostalgic childhood by-gones.

Explore the restored National School with its re-creation of Wilderspin's schoolroom and 1845 infant playground. See the interactive displays and exhibition showing the changes in the school over the last 150 years, as well as a contrasting late Victorian classroom which is used for re-enactment sessions as part of an education and events programme.

Waters' Edge Country Park

Waters' Edge Visitor Centre is one of the 'greenest' buildings in the UK. Set in an 86-acre park, the stunning curved glass building sits on the waterfront near to the Humber Bridge. Interactive displays and games give an insight into the secret lives of the wildlife living in the area as well as encouraging visitors to care for the environment.

The surrounding 86-acre Country Park is perfect for walking with its picturesque reedbeds, meadows and woodland. There are also two well-equipped children's play areas and an abundance of wildlife to be discovered. After all your exertions around the park you can treat the family to a delicious home-cooked meal or snack on offer at The Honey Pot Café.

BARTON

WALKING IN BARTON

North Lincolnshire is ideal for walking and cycling. The 2009 Tour of Britain started here and Barton is the starting point for long distance walks like the Nev Cole Way and the Viking Way, which link to form an 89-mile circular walk. Pick up a walking pack or cycle pack from Brigg Tourist Information Centre and discover our beautiful countryside for yourself.

BARTON TRAILS

Barton Civic Society has developed a series of self-guided trails around the town, passing magnificent churches and chapels, fine halls and merchants' houses. Tracing the development of the local industries that shaped Barton – the manufacture of ropes, bicycles, bricks and tiles, they tell the story of how Barton grew from a town mentioned in the Domesday Book to one of the most important ports on the Humber in the late medieval period. Free walks leaflets can be obtained from any of the South Humber Collection attractions and many local shops.

The Ropewalk

The Ropewalk, a grade II listed 400 metre long building once the hub of this region's rope making industry is now a regionally acclaimed arts centre. The factory closed in 1989, ending a 200-year association with rope making documented in the Museum within the building. The single storey pantile roofed building was given a new lease of life in 2000 when it reopened as a centre for the arts. Visitors can now see work by over 200 artists and craft makers in four galleries together with the Sculpture Garden. There is also a programme of day workshops for adults and children together with regular printmaking classes. The Ropery Coffee Shop serves morning coffee and afternoon tea as well as delicious freshly made light lunches. The centre also has artists' studios (Open Studios the last 2 weekends in September every year), creative industries, a picture framing service and Ropery Hall, its live entertainment venue.

Baysgarth House Museum

Located in the heart of historic Barton upon Humber, Baysgarth House is the ancestral home of the prominent Nelthorpe family. Set within 30 acres of parkland this Grade II listed building is a beautiful example of Georgian architecture and is the perfect setting for a family day out.

Now a museum, Baysgarth House is managed by the Community Heritage Arts and Media Project (CHAMP). With a variety of exhibitions held throughout the year, the museum displays reflect the local significance of the house. The main building houses traditional Georgian and Victorian period rooms and a large collection of beautiful 18th and 19th century pottery and porcelain. Visitors can also explore the Industrial Museum located in the old stable block or discover traditional crafts such as thatching, cobbling and blacksmithing in the museum's Craft Cottage.

St Peter's Church

With a history spanning over a millennium, St Peter's Church can best be described as an archaeological treasure-trove, as it is one of the most studied churches in England. The church showcases a remarkably complete Anglo-Saxon tower and Baptistry, dating mainly from c.970 and the large medieval nave and chancel displays a range of architectural styles. St Peter's Church gives exceptional insights into diets and diseases over the last nine centuries.

After major restoration work during 2007, St Peter's Church now has an interactive exhibition featuring reconstructed skeletons and details lifestyles of life in the past. All this makes St Peter's one of the best places in the country to learn and marvel at the past.

Alkborough Turf Maze (Julian's Bower)

Alkborough turf maze, also known as Julian's Bower, sits high on the Trent Ridge in the charming village of Alkborough. Cut by monks in the 12th century, the site offers panoramic views across the confluence of the rivers Trent, Ouse and Humber; reputedly you can see the towers of York Minster on a clear day. The maze is also depicted on the floor of the nearby Church of Saint John the Baptist.

Alkborough Flats

In a superb natural setting where the rivers Trent and Ouse join to form the Humber estuary, Alkborough Flats Managed Realignment site is an exciting project which helps protect thousands of homes from flooding. The flood defences next to the Humber estuary were purposely breached in September 2006 allowing tidal waters to enter the site. Since then, mudflats, saltmarsh and inter-tidal reedbeds have developed. The site provides essential feeding areas for thousands of wading birds and wildfowl and is a wonderful place to get views of the Bearded Tit and Little Egret. Footpaths, hides and information panels will help you explore and discover more about the site.
